-Jay McShann is the 87 year old, still active, King of Kansas City jazz, swing, blues and r&b.

- Jay will be included in the Clint Eastwood documentary on piano players to be aired on PBS on Oct. 4th., as part of the Martin Scorsese seven part series to help celebrate the 'Year Of The Blues'.

- 'Goin' To Kansas City' includes Duke Robillard on guitar, and Kansas City veterans Milt Able on bass and Tommy Ruskin on drums. Johnnie Johnson (Chuck Berry, Keith Richards) joins Jay on two tracks, recorded in a rare, two piano only setting. Maria Muldaur duets with Jay on his classic 1941 composition 'Confessin' The Blues' which has been recorded by everyone from Little Walter to the Rolling Stones, Chuck Berry and B.B. King.

- Jay continues to perform at selected festivals with the Duke Robillard Band including the Monterey Jazz Festival on Sept. 21st., where he will also take part in a special event with Clint Eastwood.

- 'Goin' To Kansas City' includes a bonus track 20 minute interview with Holger Petersen and Jay recorded at Jay's home and at his piano.

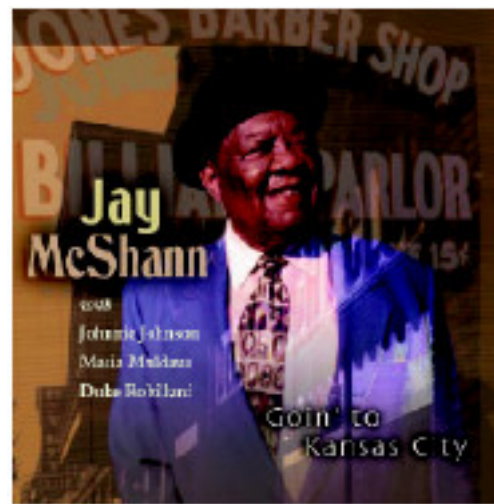

- Jay 'Hootie' McShann was the last of the Kansas City Big Band leaders who's first radio transcriptions go back to 1940. Charlie Parker was with Jay's orchestra off and on for three years. Jay's singers included Walter Brown, Jimmy Witherspoon, Big Miller and Al Hibler.

-"Jay McShann is one of the great ones. I think he's the most under appreciated of all us bluesmen". - B.B King
